ENERCO KT-30 RAIL GAP ADJUSTER

USED FOR

Replacing Insulated Joint End Posts without removing the fish plates.

Adjusting the gap on jointed track, Switches and Crossings to correct for creep movement. Replacing broken and worn fishplates using our Master 35® Impact Wrench or other suitable device.

Adjusting breather switches utilising the nearest fish plate - joint.

The KT-30 can push/pull up to 100mm (4") in a single operation and up to 250mm (10") with several passes.

FEATURES

The Enerco KT-30 is a hydraulically operated hand pumped Rail Gap Adjuster, capable of either pushing or pulling rail ends with a force of up to 300 Kn or 30 tonnes.

It carries its own weight on built-in rollers, for easy transit along the rail and because it is totally self contained, bulky powerpacks are not required.

The unit grips the rail head, leaving access to remove fishplates and replace insulating end posts, while still holding any tension or compression present in the rail. The Rail Gap Adjuster makes it possible to replace a failed end post without the need to wait for the rail to cool down. This can be done in less than half an hour, reducing train delays and saving significant sums of money in the process.
